Life Sciences: Efor Group continued its growth in the USA with the opening of its office in Chicago

Lyon, November 2026 – Efor, a leading international group specializing in quality and compliance for the Life Sciences industries, announces the opening of its new office in Chicago. This new location marks another milestone in the group's international expansion strategy and once again demonstrates its commitment to providing clients with proximity, support, and service excellence.

Present in 19 countries, Efor continues to grow its international footprint with the opening of its new Chicago office. This opening is part of the strong growth momentum the group is experiencing in the United States, particularly in the Midwest region, where Efor already has a significant presence.

Today, more than 80 consultants support major pharmaceutical projects across the area. This dynamic growth has been further reinforced by the signing of new projects over the summer, representing $50 million in value and opening up exciting prospects for the group over the next three years.

This new office will strengthen Efor's international ambitions. With more than 3,200 employees worldwide, the group leverages their expertise and the close relationships built with their clients to deliver the highest quality services, tailored to local specificities and global standards

Building a team of experts

Efor has already begun assembling a dedicated team in Chicago, with the ambition of continuing to embody, through this new location, the group's core values: excellence, commitment, and ambition.

Industrial companies in the region will benefit from the group's global expertise combined with a local presence that fosters proximity and deep understanding of their challenges.

The opening of this office marks a major milestone in Efor's growth in the USA, creating new opportunities for collaboration and innovation in the Life Sciences sector. This initiative is fully aligned with the group's strategy to establish itself as a global reference partner for quality and compliance in the healthcare industry.
